Cardmaking offers a wide variety of tools, materials, and embellishments, so there's no need to purchase everything at once! During our first class, I'll share a list of additional supplies you may want to explore as you develop your cardmaking skills.

As the workshop progresses, students will have opportunities to bring in extra creative materials to share with the group. These may include embellishments, ribbon, stickers, decorative papers, scraps, buttons, tags, die cuts, and other cardmaking supplies.

The goal is to create a shared creative supply table where everyone can explore new materials, discover creative combinations, and inspire one another. Sharing supplies is a great way to experiment without purchasing everything yourself. Additional supplies are always optional, but purchasing new materials as you expand your cardmaking collection may involve extra costs.

Please email the instructor with any questions regarding supplies.

In case you are unable to attend class, consider purchasing supplies that are returnable.
